

Puppies

There are different kinds of puppies out there. There are St. Bernards, Labradors, Poodles, and more. They are playful, they are smart, and our best friends. Puppies may not look like it, but they are our favorite friend in the world. Labs, Dalmations, Retrievers, and more like to play with you. Make sure that you have a lot of caffeine in you, or otherwise, you might get tired, like coming home from a long day of work.

There are dogs that will protect you. German Shepherds, Rottweilers, and Doberman are very protective, so do not do anything that might freak them out, or otherwise you might find yourself with something that you may have to repay.

There are service dogs. These dogs are very willing to help you, especially if you're eating. Poodles, Pomeranians, and Boxers are great service dogs. You never know, you might need their help one day.

We love puppies because they are cute, playful, and also very, very fun. I'm more of a cat person, but I like my Golden Lab a lot more than my cats, or my Black Lab. We choose different puppies to fit what we like. We like dogs with short or long hair, playful, or mellow, anything, and guess what? You will actually find it.

Here's a link that will lead you back to my website. Like I said, puppies are your best friends, not your food or video games. Go play! Go be a puppy for once! Choose a puppy that you will love. Puppies Require great amount of attention. They need to be fed, they need to be played with, they need to be walked and do their business(or they will do it for you in the house). No matter what, a puppy needs something. It needs sleep. It needs you. It needs a friend. Ever hear a little child say, "I want this, I want that"? Puppies are like the same thing. Enjoy it. And make sure that you give it plenty of time and attention.
